

CABINET CONSIDERS COST OF LIVING PROBLEM

ATTEMPTED JAIL DELIVERY NIPPED BY JAIL OFFICER

Prisoners Say Murderer Johnson Started Their Work.

The watchfulness of Deputy Sheriff Joe Miller, who is acting as Turnkey at the Lee county jail, has frustrated an attempt at jail delivery, which attempt Milo June and Henry Malanado, the two prisoners in the bastille, say was incited by R. E. Johnson, the negro whose life was saved by the Division of Pardons and Paroles and Gov. Lowden after he had been convicted and sentenced to die for the murder of George Bush at Nelson on Dec. 6, and who is now serving his term of life imprisonment in the Joliet penitentiary, to which punishment his sentence was commuted by the state officials.

Four different avenues to escape were being tried by the prisoners when the attempts were discovered by Deputy Miller. Several days ago, hearing light pounding in the cell room he adopted a policy of "watchful waiting," and in the end he was rewarded by catching Milo June (the young ex-soldier who is in the jail awaiting action by the grand jury for his alleged theft of a Ford auto in Amboy recently) in the act of cutting away at the wooden ceiling in the cell room.

Had Smuggled Knife.

The corrugated iron ceiling had rusted away in the northeast corner of the room, and by standing on the cage vestibule over the entrance to the cell room the young prisoner was able to pull this sheeting down and with a knife, which the authorities believe must have been "slipped" to him by a friend, he had cut partially through several of the boards.

He evidently had planned on cutting a hole about a foot square, which he probably thought would give him quick and free access to the roof. Not knowing that a steel sheeting nearly a quarter of an inch thick was between the boards and the roofing he had made no plans for cutting through that barrier.

By bending the corrugated iron ceiling back into place when he was through working he distracted attention from the evidence of his work, as the jail attendants had known for

DIXON BOYS IN BAD AUTOMOBILE WRECK SATURDAY

Gerald Jones and Bertram Whitcombe Hurt Near Muscatine.

Gerald Jones and Bertram Whitcombe of this city narrowly escaped being instantly killed Saturday afternoon in an automobile accident which occurred about four miles from Muscatine, Iowa. The two young men were thrown through a wind shield, receiving deep cuts and painful bruises, which necessitated their being hurried to the office of a physician in Muscatine where their wounds were dressed. The car they were driving was badly damaged and an Oldsmobile which collided head on with them, was almost completely wrecked.

The young men were able to return home late Sunday evening and are still under physicians' care. They left Dixon Saturday with a Haynes car which had been left at the Miller Bros. garage for repairs, to deliver it to its owner at Burlington. About four miles north of Muscatine near Sweetland Center, they were climbing a steep hill at a speed of about 25 miles an hour when another car passed them raising a cloud of dust, which was the direct cause of the accident.

As the Haynes car in which they were riding reached the top of the hill in the dust cloud, they did not see an Oldsmobile approaching them at a high rate of speed until it was directly upon them. Bertram Whitcombe was the first to discover the oncoming car and stood up in the Haynes, this probably being the one thing that saved him from being killed instantly. When the two cars collided, both of the Dixon young men were thrown through the wind shield alighting on the fenders. Both were badly cut and bleeding when they were picked up and hurried to Muscatine.

Whitcombe suffered severe bruises about the back and was badly cut about the left side of his face and Jones received cuts about the face and was badly bruised about the back and legs.

'MILLION DOLLAR RAIN' BROUGHT JOY TO LEE CO. FARMERS THIS A. M.

Cupola at Nachusa Tavern Struck By Cold Bolt—See Storm Freak.

The damage, more or less, caused by the lightning in the storm which visited this section at an early hour this morning, was more than offset by the great good of the rain—"a million dollar shower." Parched pastures, corn which was commencing to fire and late potatoes, beans, etc., which were showing unmistakable signs of the long drought, soaked up the hard rainfall and could undoubtedly have accepted more moisture.

Nachusa Tavern Struck.

During the early part of the storm, at 4:30 a. m., a cold bolt struck the cupola at the Nachusa Tavern, damaging it greatly and frightening all of the inhabitants of the hotel. The bolt struck the northwest corner of the tower, tearing a big hole in it, splintering the entire side and breaking all the windows. Inmates, aroused suddenly from their slumbers, were apprehensive of fire and for a time great excitement prevailed, until investigation showed that the lightning had not set fire to the building.

More complete investigation of the cupola shows that the heavy timbers supporting its roof were splintered and torn by the bolt, and it is estimated the damage will amount to over $100.

Passengers who were waiting at the Northwestern depot shortly before 5 o'clock witnessed a storm freak. A loud crash of thunder was followed by a flame of lightning that followed one of the north rails of the main line track from the Gossard plant and around the curve east of the depot. Many who saw it claim that the flame was fully two feet from the rail and travelling at a high rate of speed.

LOCAL BRANCH OF KIWANIS CLUB IS UNDER FORMATION

Several Business Men Interested in New Organization.

The Kiwanis Club International, a series of 172 business and professional men's clubs established throughout the United States and Canada, has instituted the organization of the Dixon Kiwanis club. The membership of the parent club numbers some 20,000 business and professional men.

The objects of the Kiwanis Club, taken from its constitution, are as follows: "Standardize and disseminate Kiwanian principles of fair dealing and practices, to discuss and study the science of business building, and to encourage the living of the golden rule in private, civic, social and business life."

As stated in their national publication, "The Torch":

"Kiwanis Clubs are a power for good in their respective communities, representing as they do the keenest minds from every branch of business and profession. On the larger problems of civic and national life, the service they can render to their community is unlimited."

"Kiwanis typifies character in business. It typifies in the most wholesome way the philosophy of the brotherhood of man. It puts punch in the soul of business that makes better business, that ties men together, that elevates the ideals of the individual, and makes of men better citizens, better neighbors, and better business men. Its mission, therefore, is most stupendous."

At a luncheon held at the Dixon Inn Monday, attended by representative business and professional men of Dixon, the organization of the Kiwanis Club of Dixon was discussed.

The next meeting of the club, which generally meets once a week, will probably be held at the Elks club house on Tuesday evening, August 19.

The temporary organization committee consists of Messrs. Watkins, Pletcher, Keyes, Roeder and Moss. They are assisting Chicago Kiwanian Henry J. Sutton in making the new club as representative of the best professions and leading businesses of Dixon as possible.

SHOPMEN OUT TO STAY; NO BALLOT WILL BE TAKEN

Will Not Obey Orders of Grand Lodge to Vote on Strike.

By Associated Press Leased Wire

Chicago, Aug. 5.—John D. Saunders, secretary of the Chicago district council of the federated railway shopmen union, said this morning that his organization had refused to take the strike vote ordered by the grand lodge officers.

"We will pay no attention to orders issued by the grand lodge," said Secretary Saunders. "No strike vote will be taken and we will not return to work until increased wages have been granted. Furthermore, we will refuse to negotiate for a settlement through the grand lodge. If the government wants to talk business with us it will have to come to us direct as we will not be bound by any agreement made by the grand lodge officials."

Officials declared that the effect of the shopmen's strike is being felt by every railway in the west and south. They say that these roads are refusing to accept perishable freight. Reports received at union headquarters were to the effect that many locomotive engineers had refused to take out trains because of the bad condition of the rolling stock. They predict that in a few more days traffic on many of the roads will be tied up.

ONLY FOREMEN WORK.

The foremen here are waiting for information as to whether foremen struck at other shops.

Russia May Receive Part of Indemnities

By Associated Press Leased Wire

Washington, Aug. 5.—Norman Davis, one of the financial advisers to the American peace delegation, told the senate foreign relations committee today that he regarded it as likely that Russia would participate in the indemnity to be paid by Germany in the event that it organized a stable government.

"Russia made a tremendous contribution toward winning the war," Mr. Davis said, "and it was the general feeling that the door should not be closed completely to her in the event a stable government was organized."

Mr. Davis testified that the real reasons why the peace conference set no definite reparation total for Germany to pay were "largely political."

The American reports said the Rumanians were demanding hostages, and threatened to kill five hostages for each Rumanian soldier injured in Budapest.

Corn Drops 8 1/2 Cents During Panicky Hour

By Associated Press Leased Wire

Chicago, Aug. 5.—Demoralization seized the grain and provision trade and forced down corn 8 1/2¢ a bushel in some cases and pork $3.50 a barrel. Extreme broke were to $1.35 for May delivery of corn and $44.50 for Sept. delivery of pork.

The reason for the collapse of values was the possibility that the price of wheat to consumer might be slashed at once by the government as a radical measure against high cost of living. In the excitement attending the developments in the corn market, prices fell 1/2¢ between trades. The descent did not cease until corn had reached a level 32¢ a bushel below the high point of the market a week ago.

War Time Electric Rates Here Are Cut

By Associated Press Leased Wire

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 5.—Electric lighting rates of the Illinois Northern Utilities company, affecting Dixon and Freeport, among other cities served, were suspended by an order of the public utilities commission announced late yesterday and a new schedule was made effective at once allowing increases amounting to one-half the war emergency advances.

The new rates add one and one-half cents per kilowatt hour to the rates in effect a year ago when wartime conditions made a boost necessary.

Increased rates for electric power at Rock Falls also were suspended and the company authorized to put into effect a rate advance equal to one-half the increase in force the past year.

450,000 RAILWAY CLERKS, LABORERS SUBMIT DEMANDS

Ultimatum is Issued to Hines to Cut Cost of Living Quick.

By Associated Press Leased Wire

Washington, D. C., Aug. 5.—Demands of 450,000 railway clerks, freight handlers, express and station employees that their wages be increased unless something was done to materially reduce the cost of living were considered today at a conference between Director General Hines and J. J. Forrester, grand president of the brotherhood of these employees.

Similar demands from the brotherhood of locomotive engineers and the brotherhood of railway trainmen are before the director general. Meantime the 500,000 shopmen over the country are formally voting on whether a strike shall be called to enforce demands made last January that their wages be increased 25 percent. Pending the outcome of this vote the thousands of shopmen already out on an unauthorized strike were expected by union officials to return to work.

Whether congress should undertake an investigation of the railroad employees' wage demands was considered today by the senate interstate commerce committee. The whole question finally was referred to a sub-committee consisting of Chairman Cummins and Senator La Follette, Wisconsin, Republicans, and Wolcott, Democrat, Delaware.

May Reduce Dividends.

Senator Norris, Nebraska, suggested that to avoid a rate increase, dividends to railroad stockholders might well be reduced. Some stockholders he said, are receiving from 10 to 50 percent guaranteed by the government.

Senator Cummins said the situation was acute and should be dealt with at once. He did not agree with Senator King, Democrat, Utah, that in view of the pending enactment of legislation looking to a permanent railroad policy, the president should withhold action until congress had acted.

Senator Kellogg, Republican, Minnesota, said that "there never was a government operation of a public utility" that wasn't "wasteful or inefficient."

The sub-committee is expected to report within a day or two.

Chairman Cummins and Senator Pomeroy, Democrat of Ohio, said the committee virtually was unanimous in the opinion that the president and the railroad administration were clothed with all necessary authority to act.

Later Chairman Cummins brought up the railroad wage question in the senate. He said criticism should not be made of the railroad employees until all the facts were determined, adding that requests of railroad executives for increased rates had not brought forth particular protest.

"The interstate commerce commission," Senator Cummins continued, "intends to give careful consideration to the president's recommendations and I do not pretend to say what it will do but I do say that it is unfair to congress for the railroad administration to issue a statement to the country by the railroad administration until additional legislation is enacted."

Will Sell Drugs on Physicians' Orders

By Associated Press Leased Wire

Washington, Aug. 5.—Hundreds of letters from persons suffering from incurable diseases and from aged persons addicted for many years to the use of drugs, pitiful in their supplications that they be allowed to buy narcotics, led Commissioner Koper today to instruct collectors of internal revenue that such persons may obtain drugs on prescription by a reputable physician that the drug is needed to maintain life.

Collectors were warned to exercise precaution to prevent the aged and infirm from becoming innocent means for illicit traffic in narcotics.

Effects of Strike Are Being Felt Here

The effects of the strike of railroad shopmen is commencing to be felt by Dixon people who travel, for because of the delays caused by unrepaid cars and locomotives, nearly all the through trains from the west on the Northwestern are running late every day. Because of the idleness of the shop men and roundhouse workers the train men are forced to "hook up" their own trains, water and coal the engines before leaving the division points and make such little repairs as they are able to. As a result all trains are delayed at division points.

LODGE SAYS WILSON HOLDS UP DATA ON LEAGUE OF NATIONS

Requests for Papers By Senate Are Unheeded Senator Charges.

By Associated Press Leased Wire

Washington, D. C., Aug. 5.—In its hearings on economic sections of the Versailles treaty, the senate foreign relations committee got into a sharp argument today over the league of nations during which Chairman Lodge declared repeated attempts to secure information on the league from President Wilson had been unavailing.

"The president," said Senator Lodge, "has never offered to come before this committee. He only sent a telephone message saying he would be glad to have the committee come to the white house. We have called for papers and he has not sent one."

Senator Fall, Republican, New Mexico, remarked that the committee did see the president at the white house on his first return from France, but had failed to get from him any important information. Democratic members of the committee replied and the argument became so sharp that the chairman had to rap for order.

The clash interrupted the testimony of Norman Davis, an economic adviser to the Versailles conference, regarding the reparations clauses of the treaty and was accepted by some senators as a foretaste of what is to be expected when Secretary Lansing appears before the committee tomorrow.

Henry Ford Can Read, Write, Witness Says

By Associated Press Leased Wire

Mt. Clemens, Mich., Aug. 5.—W. J. Cameron, a writer who takes Henry Ford's ideas and expands them into Ford's own page, in Mr. Ford's magazine, was sworn at today's session of the Ford-Tribune suit to prove that Mr. Ford can read and write.

Attorney Stevenson for the Tribune objected and Alfred Lucking replied: "Mr. Stevenson charged that Mr. Ford could not read or write and I purpose to show—"

"There is not a word in the record on that except the words of Mr. Ford himself," interrupted Mr. Stevenson.

"I object to calling a hired man to rebut Mr. Ford's own testimony." Witness was permitted to answer.

"How do you know he can read and write?" asked Mr. Lucking.

"I have seen him write and I have heard him read," smiled the witness.

There was no cross examination.

ENFORCEMENT OF PRESENT LAW TO BE ONE MEASURE

Atty. Palmer Makes Preliminary Report to President.

By Associated Press Leased Wire

Washington, Aug. 5.—Attorney General Palmer expects to be ready to present a preliminary report to President Wilson today concerning possible steps to be taken by government agencies in the effort to reduce living costs.

Julius H. Barnes, president of the United States Grain corporation, has been called to the white house for late today and it is understood the president will take up with him a proposal to restore wheat to a free market, with the government making good the difference between the market price and the $2.26 guarantee to the farmers.

Wilson Gives All Time

Conferences with republican and democratic senators on league of nations have definitely been abandoned by the president until the problems of the high cost of living are solved, Secretary Tumulty announced. The president, Mr. Tumulty said, "is going to give his whole time to the question of high cost of living."

Administration officials feel that one way to decrease the cost of living is to increase production and President Wilson is understood to feel that strikes now or threats of strikes will interfere materially with any solution of the problem sought by government agencies.

Whether the president will go before congress to recommend steps designed to relieve the situation will depend, Mr. Tumulty said, on the report made by Mr. Palmer.

Members of the cabinet went into conference early today with Mr. Palmer to receive the report of the special committee appointed last week to tabulate the various suggestions thus far advanced. The conference was expected to continue until just before the regular Tuesday cabinet meeting.

Mr. Palmer's report was to be submitted at the cabinet meeting and the president then planned to discuss a free market for wheat with Mr. Barnes.

New Legislation Planned

After his conference with the cabinet officers, Mr. Palmer said the suggestions considered had to do largely with new legislation and enforcement of present laws. The question of a free market for wheat was discussed, but Mr. Palmer said the suggested revival

METAL WORKERS TO DEMAND CUT IN LIVING COST

500,000 Will Petition Wilson to Adopt Drastic Measure.

By Associated Press Leased Wire

San Francisco, Aug. 5.—The metal trades department of the American Federation of Labor will demand of congress and the president this month that measures be taken to reduce the high cost of living, according to James O'Connell, chairman of this department. Membership of the metal crafts exceeds 500,000, O'Connell said.

The demands will be brought forward, he said, by the executive committee of the metal trades department which meets in Washington August 15.

"We have been granted wage increases that have gotten us nowhere," O'Connell said. "The mounting cost of living absorbs all increases and we are going to put it up to the government to find the way out."

Gen. Smuts in Plea for Weaker Peoples

By Associated Press Leased Wire

London, Monday, Aug. 4.—(Delayed)—Lieutenant General Jan Christian Smuts of the union of South Africa, a British member on the league of nations commission was given an enthusiastic welcome on his return to London today. In a speech replying to addresses of welcome General Smuts drew a stirring picture of the conditions of central Europe.

Dealing with the question whether the organization of civilization has not been destroyed, he reiterated that a more human spirit among nations was needed, giving as an axiom for carrying this out the following:

"Give freedom and self-government; be generous, be magnanimous."

Lee Lahman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Lahman, died this morning about 6:30 at the Dixon Inn, where the family have been staying for a few days. Death was due to heart trouble which resulted from an attack of influenza. The young man came to Dixon March 12, from the family home at Greeley, Col., having been brought here on account of the condition of his health after his recovery from the influenza attack which left his heart in a very weakened condition.

The little fellow appeared to have gained strength rapidly and the family made their home in a cottage at the Assembly Park until a few days ago. They had planned on returning to Greeley this afternoon. Besides the bereaved parents, one sister, Miss Lula Lahman also survives. The body was removed to the undertaking parlors of Staples-Meyer & Schumm where it was prepared and will be sent to Greeley tomorrow afternoon, where the funeral will be held and burial will take place.

Carl Mays Case May Cause Bitter Fight in American League

By Associated Press Leased Wire
New York, Aug. 5.—The case of Carl Mays, pitcher, whose suspension by President Johnson after Mays had been traded by the Boston club to the New York Yankees which bids fair to result in one of the bitterest wars of organized baseball will not be settled by the American league club owners. President Johnson who came to New York to preside at a meeting of the league, called for today, announced that the special meeting would not be held. The owners of the Yankees, Colonel Jacob Ruppert and Lieutenant Colonel T. L. Huston told Johnson that they would not attend such a meeting and Colonel Huston issued a statement in which he said that it was his belief that President Johnson was interested in the Cleveland club adding that "until this carbuncle is removed there can be no health in our league."

Harry Sparrow, business manager of the club said that legal machinery had been put in motion to protect the club's right.

The preliminary move is expected to be in the form of an application for an injunction against Johnson to prevent him interfering with the New York club's property rights to Pitcher Mays. The owners of Yankees is said to feel that the disciplinary action in Mays case was especially severe and cite the case of Ty Cobb in 1912 when the Detroit club players went on a strike because of Cobb's suspension. Cobb's offense was assaulting a spectator, and Mays' that of throwing a baseball at a "rooter." The Cobb case was cleared up in two weeks, Cobb getting off with a ten days suspension and a fine of $50.

To Train Athletic Coaches at U. of I.

Urbana, Ill., Aug. 5.—The coming Camps, Staggs, Yosts, and Zupkes—the athletic coaches of the future—will not be developed haphazardly. Instead of being educated for other professions and taking up coaching incidentally, the new coaches will have the benefit of four years special training for their work and the prestige of a university degree.

That is the plan of the University of Illinois where a department of athletic coaching and physical education has been established. A four year course in coaching will open Sept. 22. Those who complete it will receive the degree of bachelor of science.

It is expected that many high school graduates interested in athletics will enroll.

The Illinois idea is new. No other university has recognized the importance of such education by offering a four year course and degree.

"Potsy" Clark, famous Illinois athlete, just home from France, who was a member of the championship football and baseball teams of the A. E. F., and Maj. John L. George A. Huff, for twenty four years director of athletics and baseball coach at Illinois, is the head of the new department.

FRIENDSHIP BETWEEN THE UNITED STATES AND CANADA IS BOUND INSEPARABLY BY TIES OF BLOOD

Type of Farm Americans make in Western Canada. Lord Shoughnessy, An American who found Success in Canada. American Soldiers marching through Calgary.

The closeness of social and commercial relations between Canada and the United States is indicated by the ever-increasing number of Americans who are seeking homes in the great farming districts of the prairie provinces of the Dominion. In the provinces of Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba alone there are 580,212 Americans. This is more than the total population of Alberta, which is 579,000. In Alberta, nearly half the population, 275,000 to be exact, are of American birth, the British born residents being about a third of this number. In Saskatchewan there are 226,330

Americans, and in Manitoba 78,789. Last year about 10,000 Americans came to Alberta, which was the lowest number in thirteen years, except in 1915, when the number was 6,255. With the war over, it is expected that the influx will resume its former proportions, which averaged about 25,000 a year, the top figure being reached in 1909, when a record of 34,003 was established. The number of resident immigrants other than British or American born is about 40,000 and practically no more are coming over. Americans like the Canadian West. They find in it the same aggressive, enterprising spirit which characterizes the United States. They find democratic laws and institutions, fair play, reform movements of the best type and innumerable opportunities for bettering their material circumstances. Then the fact that there are many Americans already in Canada brings more, for they are especially gregarious when their own people are concerned.

Canadians and Americans stood shoulder to shoulder in war and mingled their best blood on Flanders fields. Now, in peace, they still stand shoulder to shoulder and mingle their blood in ties of kinship.

In 1903 she was married to Edward Miller and took up her residence in South Dixon township where she made home continuously since.

She is also survived by her mother, Mrs. Robert Trager, of Mazomanie, Wis., brothers, Ernest, of Casper, Wyo., O. W. of Chadron, Neb., Louis, of Richland Center, Wis., and three sisters, Mrs. Ida Rowell, of Newport, Wash., Mrs. Lula Reeves, of Mazomanie, Wis., and Mrs. Frank Spiller, of Dixon.

Mrs. Miller was a member of St. James Lutheran church of South Dixon and took an active part in the affairs of the church. Charitable, kind, a loving wife and mother, she leaves a place in the hearts of the community that never can be filled.

American Legion and Legion of Honor

While the American Legion is being formed into a great democratic body by the soldiers, sailors and marines of the American army and navy, the men who used to employ them when they were plain citizens are also organizing what is known as the Legion of Honor.

These employers couldn't go and fight themselves, but they emptied their offices, stores and factories of their best employees, so that the war might be speeded up and won gloriously. While the youngsters were away, these employers strained every nerve to keep up their standards of efficiency with the aid of women workers, older men, and redoubled efforts on their own part. And now, as the young fighters are coming back, they are finishing the job gallantly by opening the doors to the old jobs, often with increased pay, always with a handshake and a "Welcome Home" that is the real thing.

It is not always easy for business organizations to do this. Increased cost of operations and the rather sluggish condition of commerce just at present are a serious drain on the books. But the Legion of Honor knows no compromise and whether the firm suffers or not, soldiers must not, and every one who comes back to the "old stand" is received cordially.

To every business house that pledges itself to take back all its former employees who have been serving their country, the War Department issues an official citation, through Col. Arthur Woods, assistant to the Secretary of War, and head of the government's great employment system for the benefit of discharged service men.

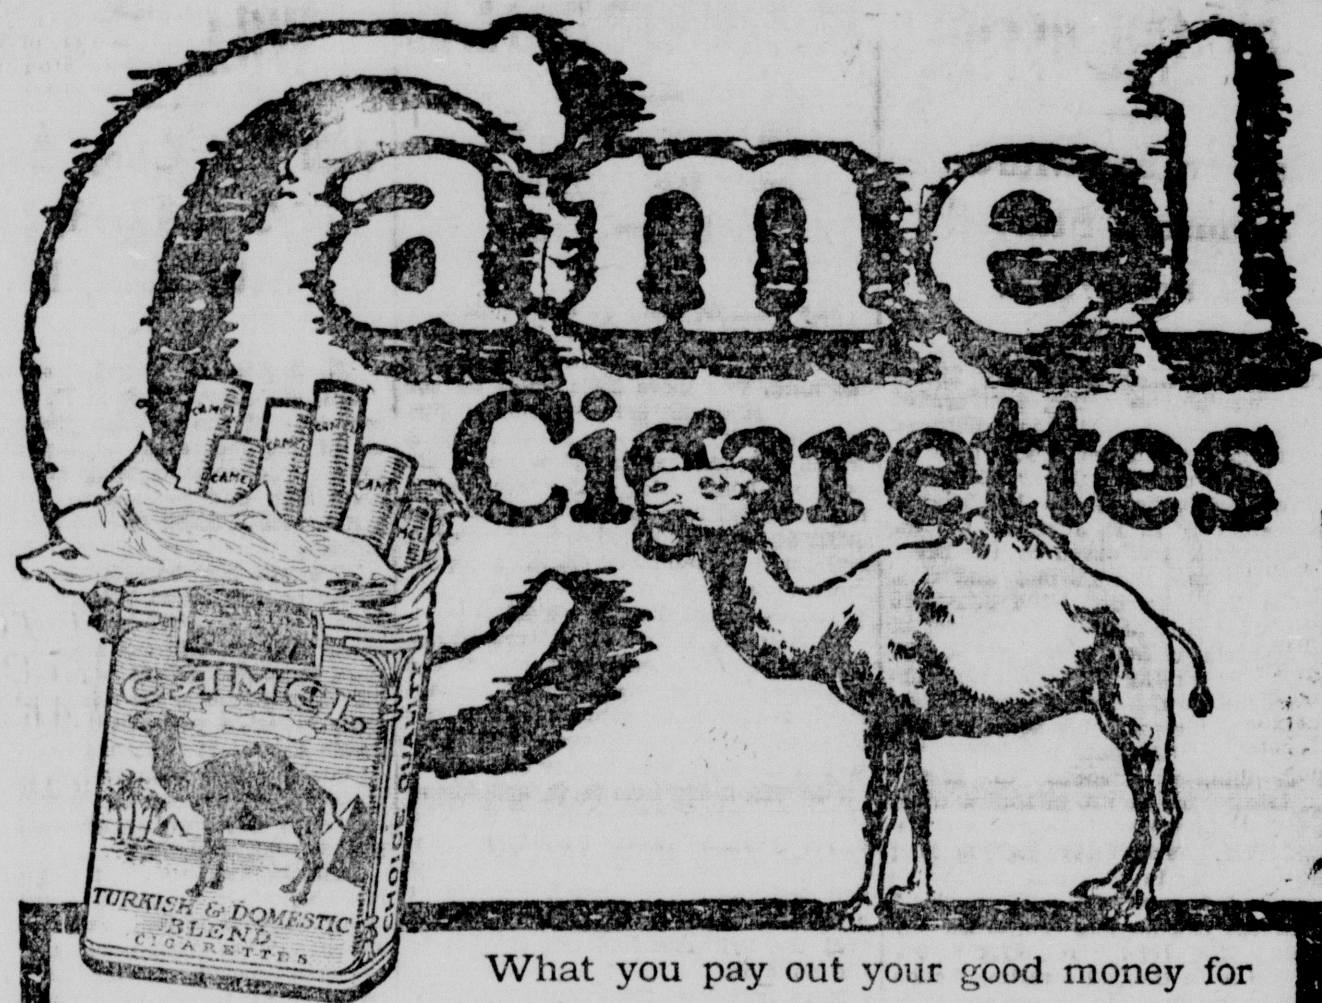

Between 70 and 80 per cent of returned men have offers of their pre-war jobs, and the large majority of American employers are qualifying for the Legion of Honor.

The Tug of Life and Death

Two warring forces—the red blood cells and the white blood cells—are always contending for mastery—in the blood. They are the processes of building up and tearing down. During youth the building-up process of the red blood cells is in the ascendancy so that the tendency of the body is all towards growth and development. As middle age approaches the two forces tend to equality while with the coming of old age, the victory of the tearing down process of the white blood cells is manifested by the slow, gradual decay of the vital energies.

M. & ST. L. MEN OUT

By Associated Press. Leased Wire. Menomouth, Ill., Aug. 5.—Shop workers in the Minneapolis and St. Louis yards walked out this morning. This is said to be the first walkout on the road.

STRIKE BALLOTS MAILED.

Washington, Aug. 5.—Having termed unsatisfactory the proposal of President Wilson and Director General Hines for a congress-created committee to investigate wages and working conditions, officials of railway shop crafts through the mailing out of strike ballots prepared to enforce their demands for wage increases approximately 25 percent. The ballots were to go to 500,000 shop employees in the United States and about 10,000 in Canada. Some of whom already are on strike refusing to obey the instructions of the union officials to await the return of the strike vote on August 24.

President Wilson was told by the shop employees' union representatives in a conference late yesterday, that all railroad employees were opposed to the proposal of Director General Hines transmitted to congress by the president. Action by congress in authorizing a special body to consider wage questions, the union officials held, would not furnish the speedy relief necessary by the raising cost of living.

STRIKE SPREADS EAST.

By Associated Press. Leased Wire. Chicago, Ill., Aug. 5.—The strike of federated crafts of the railroad shopmen, which started last Friday, continued to spread, according to reports today, of the officials directing the walkout. Representatives of the men who have been endeavoring to bring about an adjustment of the demands for an approximate advance in wages of 25 percent are making efforts to end the strike, claiming that it is not legally authorized by the several unions of the allied crafts involved.

Middle West Affected Worst. While several points in the south and northwest reported walkouts by shopmen, the greatest number were in the middle west. In this section grand lodge officers have begun a tour of principal points to counteract the efforts of committees sent out from district headquarters here by President M. L. Hawver and Secretary Joseph D. Saunders. It was from these officials the summons to quit work was sent out.

the claim being that the demands of the men for wages commensurate with the high cost of living had been deferred since last fall and still seemed far from adjustment. Efforts of Director General of Railroad Hines to bring about a settlement have proved unavailing. R. H. Ashton, regional director of railroads, said that traffic thus far had not been imperilled by the strike and that he expected a speedy return of men now out on strike. "I understand the men have been ordered back by the officials in Washington," he said, "and the strike from the first has lacked their grand lodge sanction. It is only being conducted by those guilty of disobeying."

SANDRA THE JEALOUS

By JANE PHELPS.

SANDRA FINDS LIFE A PUZZLE

CHAPTER XXXVII.

So everyone had thought Everett would marry Irma Barton. Perhaps he was sorry he hadn't. He always acted so gay and interested when he was with her—not at all stern and quiet as when with me. I had felt a little jealousy of Mrs. Barton ever since the first time I had seen Everett talking with her. Now that jealousy was increased. She acted flattered by Everett's attentions—but if he had cared for her, why hadn't he married her instead of me?

Then I remembered what Mr. Leveredge had said.

"She's not young, and I guess Graham is ready to settle down with a family. It looks like it, marrying that child."

How I wished the music had not just then started up. I couldn't help wondering what more he would have said. He had started "He is—then I heard no more."

"If Everett Graham thought he was going to make a mother of me, he is mistaken! Let him adopt children if he wanted them." I said to myself, then blushed at my immodesty in thinking of such things. Yet hadn't he as much as told me that was his reason for asking me to marry him? A home and family, wife and children," he had said when I asked him what he had married me for when he loved Leola.

Sometimes I thought no girl ever had such a queer sort of a puzzle to solve as I did. If I could have written or talked it over with mother, I think she would have found some way to have helped me. But she was so far away; had been so averse to my marrying an older man and would be unhappy if she thought I was not contented, that I couldn't bring myself to let her know anything about how I felt.

I blushed whenever I thought of how I had told Rose Grandon that Everett was "crazy over me, wild to marry me." I had heard how he treated Leola the woman he was in love with, and of whom he was so jealous. And I knew the way he treated me, the woman he had married for those other reasons.

Oh, if I only dared to do the things Leola did! If when Everett told me not to dance in public places, I had the courage to dance—all I wanted to—and when he treated me coldly or flared up at me, I dared to make such a fuss that he would have to do something to quiet me!

Some day when I was a little older, and had been his wife a little longer, I would do things too—the things Leola used to do. I was learning a lot about her. Perhaps I would soon learn some of the indiscreet things she had done; then I would do the same things. If they made Everett love her they might make him love me too. He might also be jealous of me. And I, like all young girls, thought jealousy a sign of love, instead of lack of faith.

I did not reason that it was not because of the things Leola did that Everett loved her, but because of what she was—she herself; that he loved her so well that he was willing to bear with her because of that love, and that not having that same feeling for me, that same intense love, he was not willing to put up with the same things from me. The next afternoon Barrett Edmonds left his sentence unfinished. "May I join you and Mrs. Sloane Friday at Rappely's?" he asked a moment later. "I should enjoy it," my reply sounded stilted.

"Please expect me then. Tell Mrs. Sloane I hope to be host on that occasion."

The rest of the time he stayed we just talked and laughed. I told him of home and the boys and girls, of Toodles and Buster. I made him laugh heartily when I told of some of their pranks; and how they used to tease me. I had not meant to be so confidential; Everett had told me to keep my home affairs to myself—that people were not at all interested in what belonged solely to one's own family. Yet Barrett Edmonds said when he left that he had not spent so happy an afternoon in a long time. I was very sure I hadn't.

"Until Friday," he had said when he left—then raised my hand to his lips! I had read of men who did this, but it was the first time a man ever had kissed my hand. Someway it kept him in my thoughts.

CHILDREN TO HAVE TOMORROW FOR THEIR OWN AT ASSEMBLY

Entertainment to Be Provided By Rode-heaver and Co.

(By ROB ROY PEERY.)
Tomorrow is Children's Day at the Assembly, and a big day it is going to be. Every boy and girl fifteen years of age and under will be admitted free to the Assembly grounds, and will have free use of all the attractions—swimming, musical entertainment, moving pictures, croquet, quoits and tennis. Come out and give your children a real treat.

We have the pleasure of announcing a new feature for Wednesday's program, to take the place of the Alpine Singers and Yodlers: the Rodeheaver Party, made up of Homer Rodeheaver, baritone and trombonist; George A. Brewster, tenor; and Robert L. Matthews, pianist. Homer Rodeheaver is "Billy" Sunday's first lieutenant. He has been engaged in evangelistic work for the past twelve years and during seven years of his association with Sunday and has become a nationally conspicuous figure in the religious interests of the country. From coast to coast millions of men and women have learned to sing gospel songs under the inspiration of his magnetic leadership. Victor phonograph records have carried his voice and his songs into nearly every corner of the country; and the Assembly is indeed fortunate in securing this party of entertainers.

Monday's Program.
At 10:30 a. m., Mrs. Hallie L. Hill of New York City, conducted the first of the daily Interdenominational Mission Study Classes, in Chautauqua Hall. The books used for study are "Christian Americanization," by Charles A. Brooks, and "A Crusade of Compassion," by Belle J. Allen, M. D. The topic of the morning was, "The Present Issue."

At 2:30 p. m., the Florentine Musicians gave a grand concert in the auditorium, which was very well attended. Andrew Vissochi, who organized this quartette to present the best in the field of novelty music and entertainment, is known as one of the great masters of the concert accordion. In his hands this instrument becomes a symphony orchestra; military band; or a breezy whisper; and his repertoire knows no limitations. His associated artists have been chosen to give symmetry to the organization. Miss Olga Capuccio, violinist, is buoyant with life and health, and delighted the big audience with her rendition of Dvorak's Humoreske, responding to an encore with the popular "I'm Always Chasing Rainbows." Miss Rosamond Wright, pianist, plays with a fine sincerity and an appreciative understanding of the work of the composer. Miss Sabra Dyer, reader and humorist, is charming in all her work, and is excellent in her presentation of characters. A novel arrangement of the Sextette from "Lucia," played on the violin and accordion, made a decided "hit" with the audience.

The evening's lecture was given by Douglas Malloch, the man who wrote

"Today," His subject was interesting and unique, "Sinners I Have Met," in which he included liars, the gossip, grouch, quitters, pessimists, and the knocker. Malloch is known especially as the poet of the great outdoors, for in his many books he has permanently recorded much of the humor, sentiment and philosophy of the woodmen and the woods. He is a great believer in making most of each day as we live it, and he has expressed that thought in these words: "Tomorrow will not be today until tomorrow, and then today will be yesterday."

10,000 on Guard in Chicago Black Belt; No Disorder Staged

(By Associated Press Leased Wire)
Chicago, Ill., Aug. 5.—Troop commanders in the riot zone reported to Adjutant General Dickson today that the night throughout the "black belt" had been one of quiet.

The 10,000 men now on guard throughout the territory where last week riot reigned—6,000 soldiers, 3,000 policemen and 1,000 deputy sheriffs—are expected to remain in the district for at least another week. It is believed by that time the desire for retaliation by whites and negroes will have passed and all will be at their occupations again.

It is expected the 17 indictments voted by the August grand jury yesterday against alleged rioters will be returned in court today.

Relief stations have been opened for the aid of the 3,000 foreigners made homeless by a fire Saturday. Red Cross workers are in charge of the distribution of food and clothing. Several of the churches in the riot zone planned to open relief stations today and public school buildings will be utilized by independent relief workers. It was reported that 3,500 negroes had applied for aid yesterday.

River Barge Lines to Seek Lower Rate

(By Associated Press Leased Wire)
St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 5.—Outlining his policy, Lewis T. Kavanaugh, newly appointed manager of the Mississippi Warrior river section of the Railroad Administration, announced he would work to win the application for a barge freight rate of 20 percent less than the railroad rate; would ask a government appropriation for the construction of docks, and would urge that the barge line be extended to St. Paul.

The application for the barge rate, now before the Railroad Administration affects only territory bordering the Mississippi from here to New Orleans, and Mr. Kavanaugh explained he would insist that it extend to all barge systems.

He asserted the docks at East St. Louis were inadequate to handle the shipments that pass through them from Chicago, St. Paul, Milwaukee and other northern cities, and said he would throw his efforts toward having them enlarged.

He expressed the belief that if the barge line is successful, the government will extend it to all navigable streams in the country.

Federal and State Authorities Probe 'Frisco Explosion

(By Associated Press Leased Wire)
Los Angeles, Calif., Aug. 5.—State authorities joined federal, county and city officials today in an effort to apprehend those responsible for the explosion that fired the home of Oscar Lawler, former assistant United States attorney general, early Sunday, and from which Mr. Lawler and his wife received burns and other injuries which may prove fatal.

Governor Stephens sent a personal telegram to Mr. Lawler offering the state's aid and an additional $1,000 reward for the apprehension of the perpetrators of the outrages, which, with previous offers brought the total amount of the reward offered to $25,500.

Explosive experts have determined the explosion was caused by two dynamite filled pieces of oil well casing which, in exploding, set fire to ten gallons of oil which was placed beside them.

BIG CIRCUS IS HERE FOR 2 PERFORMANCES

Arrived in Rain Storm at Early Hour—Big Crowd to See Animals.

The great American national amusement—the circus—has arrived. In all its awe inspiring ponderousness, its kaleidoscopic radiance, and its spirited revelation, it appears again and old and young flock from miles around to see presented its multitudinous attractions. Its thrilling music, the crowds, the animals, the sights, sounds and smell, appeal to the senses in varying allurements until the circus is the greatest social magnet of modern time.

"Ladies and Gentlemen, we have with us today Al G. Barnes wild animal circus, the only exhibition of its kind in existence."

In the driving rain and high wind of early morning the trains of big, brilliant colored cars, bearing the paraphernalia of the mammoth exposition arrived in Dixon over the North-Western, coming from DeKalb. Despite the storm there was a good crowd on hand to watch the unloading, and the circus employees went right to work just as if weather counted for nothing to them.

As the hours progressed, wagons bearing canvas, poles, stakes, and animals were hurried from the multi-colored platforms and rushed across to the show field, where an incredibly short space of time, there grew a canvas city, thronging with people, inhabitants and visitors.

Storm Stopped Farm Work.
The storm, preventing the farmers from continuing their harvesting, resulted in many, who had intended coming to Dixon this evening, driving in early this morning to spend the day, and when the big street parade started moving the streets of Dixon were thronged. It was a fine parade, promising a fine show, and in every detail it fulfilled the promises made by the circus management.

This afternoon's performance proved that Barnes has added another star in the halo of his success and now stands without an equal in the show world.

When the big Al G. Barnes wild animal circus arrived in Dixon this morning a large crowd of boys, girls and big grown-ups were on deck to see the big circus unload. Never will the interest die in this great American institution, and as long as there are kiddies in the world the circus will never lose its power to thrill the public. The big magic city rose like Aladdin's palace; everything in its place, no hurry, no worry, but system in everything.

The cook house or dining room for the people connected with this big aggregation seats 600 people, and it was some breakfast, too. Good ham and eggs, fruit and cream, potatoes, coffee, tea or milk, bread, butter and plenty of jam and other things that were on every table. It made the writer hungry.

Asking the king of animal trainers, Al G. Barnes, what he fed the animals, smiling this noted man answered:

"What do the animals eat in the circus? What is the bill of fare for the elephant and the kangaroo and the rest of the menagerie of horned, furrow, tailed carnivora and herbivora? Unable to forage for themselves, they must have their own chef, dietitian, waiters and—the greatest essential—menus. What do the wild beasts have for dinner?"

The circus is now the irresistible temptation to small boys and girls and their fathers and mothers, the wise persons who take care of the animals what tempts their appetites were asked. It was found that heaping the dinner table for a menagerie is almost as complicated and costly a job as heaping the tables of a big hotel. Frequently the bears are given rye bread, like that fed to the kangaroos and also honey and pineapples. In the winter they get soup and a special kind of corn cake. They also, once a week, have the egg-nog such as the cats get, and the little Japanese bears are fed carrots and apples. The polar bears have four pounds of fish apiece twice a day.

University Wages Will Not Be Higher

(By Associated Press Leased Wire)
Urbana, Ill., Aug. 5.—David Kinley, acting president of the University of Illinois, has denied widespread reports that salaries and wages at the University are to be increased 20 per cent this year.

"There seems to be an opinion," he said, "that the income of the University has been increased, but such is not the case. Aside from two or three sums appropriated by the federal government for special purpose and not available for the expense of operation, the total funds at the disposal of the University for the coming fiscal year is only a fraction over 10 per cent greater than it was last year. There is every prospect of a considerable increase in the number of students this fall, especially freshmen and this means more classes and more instructors. They must be provided for before we can figure on higher salaries. We can make some increase but largely at the expense of reducing our purchase of equipment."

Acting President Kinley pointed out that already the salary scale at the University was higher than that of any other of the great universities of the middle west, but that competition from business houses and the government was being felt keenly when it came to obtaining competent men and women for the faculty.

Council Will Meet.—In addition to taking action on the taxi ordinance at this evening's meeting, the city council will give consideration to some public improvements matters which are under way.

Corn Crop May Be Damaged in August

(By Associated Press Leased Wire)
Chicago, Ill., Aug. 5.—Owing to the fact that the cost of meat and of all cereal foods is largely regulated by the price of corn, much interest attaches to a report which has been issued by the Continental & Commercial National Bank here pointing out that the United States corn crop of 1919 is not yet made and is in danger of damage during August. The report says that the average this year is 4 per cent less than the revised area of last year, but that nevertheless the prospects this year are for a production well above last season.

According to the bank's figures, the United States will have over and above the needs for home use 300,000,000 bushels of surplus wheat from this year's crop available for export.

RAISULI OUTBREAK RECALLED CAPTURE OF CITIZENS OF U. S.

Reminds Washington of How Veteran Newspaper Man Made History.

Washington, D. C.—"The outbreak of Raisuli, the 'Moroccan Robin Hood,' which Spain is rushing troops through Tangier to check, recalls a famous episode during the administration of President Roosevelt, and a story of how a veteran newspaperman helped make history," says a bulletin from the National Geographic Society. "It was in 1904, following his capture of an English correspondent, for whose ransom the Sultan of Morocco had to pay $10,000, that the irrepressible bandit went after 'bigger game' and kidnapped a wealthy American, Ion Perdicaris, and his son, Cromwell Varley. "When Raisuli paid no attention to the demand of the United States government for the release of the two men, President Roosevelt promptly dispatched a fleet of American war ships to Morocco, and sent the famous ultimatum to the sultan, 'Perdicaris alive or Raisuli dead.' "It was in connection with the framing of that ultimatum that a trusted correspondent of the Associated Press is concerned, according to a classic story among the Washington newspapermen. Being entrusted with preparing a message for President Roosevelt to sign, Mr. Hay, then Secretary of State, did so, and, as many a public official has done, submitted it to his friend, the newspaper man, for his opinion. "Well, it may be diplomatic but the Sultan never will 'get' you in the midst of all those words," was in effect, the newspaper man's verdict. Then flashed the bright idea, "Why not say what you mean, and no more, Mr. Secretary, 'Perdicaris alive or Raisuli dead.' Short Ultimatum. "The Secretary agreed. President Roosevelt approved. And so it happened that the sultan so far 'got' this succinct American demand, that he abandoned the usual oriental indirection, and the result, while helpful to the victims, was exceedingly hard on the sultan. For to deliver the two Americans Raisuli had to be appeased with payment of about five times the ransom he demanded for the London correspondent, with appointment of himself as governor of certain areas about Tangier, and release of his bandit friends and imprisonment of some of his enemies."

The bulletin then quotes from Mr. Perdicaris' own story of his capture, as related in a communication sent to The National Geographic Society by him shortly after his release. Mr. Perdicaris wrote, in part: "In 1894 Umlai El Hassan died. This Sultan was perhaps the ablest ruler Morocco ever enjoyed. His young son, Ehd El Aziz, nominally succeeded to the throne upon his father's death, but did not assume the reins of power until the decease, in 1900, of the Great Vizier, Ben Hamed Ben Moussa. A year or two later an adventurer known as Ghilali El Zarhimi, an alleged elder brother of Ehd El Aziz, and many of the Berbers in the neighborhood of Fez rallied around the Pretender and even threatened Fez itself. For a short time the Sultan's troops were so aroused that many of them deserted with their arms to the enemy, and the Sultan himself barely escaped capture. "The weakening of the Sultan's hold upon power was followed by a marked toward foreigners — Europeans or alteration in the attitude of the natives Americans. "I was at the time president of an international commission charged with the administration of the town of Tangier; nor did I imagine that I myself would be exposed to any immediate danger, much less that I should be carried off as a hostage by the Berbers, or that the squadrons of our navy and the orders of my release in Washington would become factors in the immortal struggle between the Berbers of El Moghereb and the Sultan of Fez and Morocco. "We had moved up two days before this startling event to Aïdonia, our summer residence, on the Spartello headland, about 5 miles from Tangier. The house which we had here erected is an unpretentious villa overlooking the entrance to the Straits of Gibraltar and surrounded by grounds some 200 acres in extent, embracing many varied features of woodland and of precipitous rock.

Taken By Bandits. "One evening we had gathered in the drawing-room directly after dinner, when we were startled by loud screams from the servants' quarters. Followed by my stepson, Mr. Cromwell Varley, whose wife and two daughters, completed with Mrs. Perdicaris, our family circle, I rushed down the passage leading to the servants' hall, where I came upon a crowd of armed natives. "Even then we did not realize our danger, but thought these intruders might be a party from a neighboring village. Our night guards were supplied from this hamlet, and we supposed that they, like ourselves, had rushed in to learn the cause of the uproar. "As I turned to inquire of these natives who crowded about me as to what had occurred, I saw some of our European servants already bound and helpless and, at the same moment, we ourselves were assailed by these intruders, who struck us with their rifles. At the same instant our hands were roughly twisted and bound behind our backs with stout palmetto cords that cut like knives. "Varley, who made a fierce resistance, was handled with more violence. Indeed I thought the rifle blows would split his head, while his hand was cut to make him let go his hold upon one of the gang, whom he almost strangled. "At this moment the housekeeper, hearing our voices, rushed across the hall from her dining room, where she had locked herself in, and, just as we were driven out of doors, we saw a blow aimed at her head and she fell to the floor. This was the last we saw, then, of any one in the house where I have never since set foot. "Once outside, our assailants endeavored to drive us down to the stables but we managed to make our way toward a guard-house, where a couple of government soldiers were stationed rather as gatekeepers to attend visitors than for any purpose of defense. "By a lamp in front of this building we saw our guards, our gardeners, and other native servants under cover of the rifles of another party of mountaineers, while a little apart stood their leader, a man of fine presence, attired in the handsome dress worn by the native gentry. One of my own men was reproaching this personage bitterly for this unprovoked aggression. "The leader of the mountaineers raised his hand and, in low but emphatic tones, declared that if no rescue were attempted nor any disturbance made, no harm would befall us and in a few weeks we should be safely back among our people, adding, 'I am Raisuli the Raisuli'—this, as I afterward discovered, being his clan appellation, since this chieftain, or native nobleman, is known among his own followers as Mulai Ahmed ben Mohammed, the Raisuli. "Knew Its Seriousness. "On hearing him declare his name I felt at once that the affair was more serious than I had hitherto anticipated, since the presence of this insurgent chieftain meant more than a mere summons to surrender any money or valuables in the house, and that some political object had probably dictated this attack. "Raisuli had indeed been reported to be on the warpath for some time past, but as his operations had been confined to outlying native villages or to the smaller towns, no one imagined he would attack any one in the immediate neighborhood of Tangier—where I myself, as president of an international commission that administered the affairs of the town, was in a position to requisition by telephone the entire available military force. "Approaching him, bound as I was and in evening dress, I said to him in Arabic, 'I know you by name, Raisuli, and I accept your safe conduct, but we cannot go with you thus. We must have our overcoats, hats and boots.' "Which of your servants shall I have released to return to the house for what you require?' replied Raisuli. "I selected Bourzin, the younger of the guards, on duty that evening. On indicating Bourzin, his bonds were cut and he was released but as he did not immediately reappear, Raisuli became impatient; still he allowed another of my servants, a Spaniard, also to be released, and the latter quickly executed his commission. We had not time, however, to put on our boots before we were hurriedly made to mount. "Several of our horses had been brought up from the stables, but either because it was feared that Varley might escape or because he had been wounded, he was put upon a mule which the mountaineers had brought with them, while I was allowed to select which of my animals I would ride. As I apprehended a long journey, I chose the youngest and most spirited of my horses. "As Mrs. Perdicaris endeavored to join us, one of the mountaineers, seizing her, threw her violently backward, down a half flight of stone steps onto the pavement, while Mrs. Varley was pitched on top of her. "Needless to say, the ladies waited in vain for our return, and when at last they ventured out onto the pergola all was silent. We had disappeared."

AROUND THE WORLD IN 40 VEHICLES

Washington.—"Now that the Atlantic has been crossed and there are plans afoot to fly over the Pacific, the day may not be far distant when some aerial Magellan will make an aeroplane tour around the world," says a bulletin of the National Geographic Society. "There are still many corners of the world where aeroplane, automobile and even the horse would be curiosities. And if a man set out to tour the globe and do it as the Romans do in respect to adopting native conveyances he would have to:

"Resort to a donkey in Spanish America and in the Holy Land, "Climb aboard a camel to traverse African deserts, "Cross some rivers of India on the inflated skins of bullocks and others by a bridge of one rawhide rope, "Submit to the sea-going motion of an elephant when he continued his journey on land, "Get into a man-borne palanquin at Calcutta, "Jolt over far eastern roads in a non-shock absorbing cart drawn by oxen, "And in China be prepared to climb into a jirikish, a sedan chair or a wheelbarrow."

A few of these curious means of travel are described in a communication to The Society by O. P. Austin, as follows:

"In all parts of that great line of deserts, stretching from North Africa across Central Asia to Northwest China, the camel is everywhere in evidence; the total number in the world being estimated at about three millions. "Not only is the camel a valuable freight carrier, but he serves as the travelling car of the Bedouin, the Caravan, the Morgans and the Harriers of the desert. When he is chosen for this more pretentious service, a light framework is placed upon his back and covered with cloths to screen the occupants from the sun and the observation of the passers, and decorated with pompons of varied colors. In this gorgeous compartment, which may be not inaptly termed the 'Palace Car of the Desert,' the master of the camel train places his wife and children, his choicest merchandise, his cooking utensils, and daily requirements, and travels in state, the observed of all observers, the envy of the wandering native of the desert. "On the Euphrates and the Tigris are still retained the curious water transports of centuries ago—the raft of skins and the circular boats. These rafts are sustained by inflated skins, prepared for this especial purpose, and after the raft floats down the river to its destination the inflated skins are removed, the air permitted to escape, and the skins carefully folded and carried back to the upper waters, where they are again inflated and used as the support of another, and still another raft. "Even more curious, to the eyes of the traveler from other parts of the world, are the circular boats, made of wickerwork and covered with skins, or made water-tight with pitch, which are still in daily use on the Tigris and Euphrates rivers. "The three principal methods of transportation of people in Central and Southern China are the Sedan chair, the jirikish and the wheelbarrow. "Probably more freight and more passengers are transported in China by the wheelbarrow than by any other land method. The wheelbarrow there used differs from that used by us, in the fact that the wheel is set in the center and thus supports practically the entire load, while the handles are supported in part by a strap or rope over the shoulders of the man who operates it. As a result, the wheelbarrow cooie in China will transport nearly a half ton on his vehicle."

An Internal Treatment for Piles (Hemorrhoids)

Gives absolute relief from all pain and suffering. Has never failed. Guaranteed.

Many people have become despondent because they have been led to believe that their case was hopeless and that there was no remedy for their case.

Go to your druggist and get an original bottle of Miro Pile Remedy, the discovery of a clever Ohio chemist, that taken internally, passes unchanged through the stomach and intestines, and thus reaches the source of the trouble where, by its soothing, healing antiseptic action, it first allays and then by direct contact with the ulcers and piles causes them to heal and disappear forever.

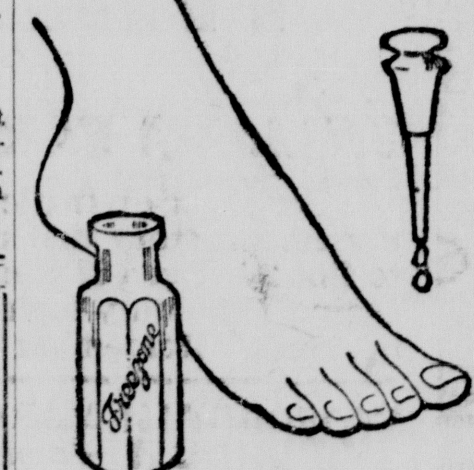

It's positively marvelous how speedily it acts. Blessed relief often comes in two or three days, even in cases that have resisted all previously known treatments really wonderful results have been accomplished. It is one of the wonderful discoveries of recent years and anyone who is disappointed with its use can have their money refunded.

All pharmacists dispense Miro or can get it for you on short notice. Surely it is worth the little trouble to obtain to be rid of piles forever.

IMPORTANT—What is known as itching piles are not piles in the true sense of piles. For this condition Miro Pile Ointment has been prepared as in such cases it is not necessary to take the internal prescription. If your druggist cannot supply you we will gladly send either of the above mail charges prepaid on receipt of price. Internal Treatment $1.50 War Tax 6c. Ointment 50c War Tax 2c extra. American Commission Finishes Turkish Tour

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Paris, Monday, Aug. 4.—(Delayed)—A dispatch to the Temps from Constantinople says the American commission charged with an investigation of Turkey in connection with mandates has arrived in Constantinople after visiting Syria, Palestine and Adana, where it received representatives of all the Turkish parties, economic committees, Armenian patriarchs and rabbis. To these people the commission propounded two questions, first, "what are your wishes?" and second "if a mandate is found necessary to what country do you prefer to entrust it?"
Thracian, Trebizond and Smyrna committees were invited to submit memoranda to the commission regarding their desires.

Striking Miners in Clash at Bellaire, O.

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Wheeling, W. V., Aug. 5.—Twenty deputy sheriffs armed with riot guns were rushed to the Fort Pitt coal mine, south of Bellaire, Ohio, this forenoon on reports of a clash between striking miners believed to be led by radical agitators and more conservative workmen. Early reports were that rioting broke out after the strikers refused to permit the other miners to work.
When the deputies arrived, the strikers, numbering more than 200, retreated beyond guard lines and appeared to be planning to make a stand and reports received here shortly after noon said a fight between the miners and deputies was expected. Sheriff John Osborn of Belmont county said he had given his men orders to shoot to kill if attacked.
According to reports received here, the strikers who are demanding a six-hour day and large wage increases, attacked non-striking workmen as they were about to enter the mine this morning. Advances just before noon said further trouble was expected.
The strikers are said to have been agitated by bolshevik agents and to have formed a radical organization.

CORN GOES DOWN WITH PROVISIONS IN SMALL PANIC

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Chicago, Aug. 5.—Buying orders which were awaiting a fresh break in the price of corn lifted the market today, but not until the new loss in values had become quite sharp. Continued liquidation at the lowest, was based on general rains, lower quotations on hogs and expected further development of the campaign against abnormal cost of necessities. On the other hand, buyers contended that bearish possibilities regarding corn had already been discounted for the present at least.
Opening prices, which ranged from ¼ to 2½c lower, with Sept. 1.77 to 1.78½ and Dec. 1.47 to 1.48, were followed by a rise to well above yesterday's finish for both the principal months.
Oats were governed by the action of corn. Demand came chiefly from the shorts. After opening ¼ to 1½c off, including Sept. at 70 to 70½c, the market receded a little more, and then scored a quick moderate advance.
Weakness in the hog market carried provisions down grade. Pork especially gave way.
Toward the last, acute weakness developed on account of chances that a drastic lowering of wheat to consumers might suddenly be decided upon at Washington. The market closed excited, 4½ to 7½c net lower with Sept. 1.74 to 1.74½ and Dec. 1.42 ½ to 1.43½.
